Singer/songwriter and producer Daniel Nahmod (pronounced Nay-Mod) is one of the most successful and admired independent artists in the United States today. He has sold over 110,000 CDs and 10,000 songbooks on his own Humanity Music Label, releasing 23 albums, and performing for over two million people, including as a keynote musical performer with his friend and collaborator Nimo at the 2019 Parliament of the World's Religions in Toronto, Canada, before an international multi-faith audience of 10,000.

His music has been licensed by Saturday Night Live, The Today Show, The Voice, The Super Bowl, and American Idol, and his songs are regularly performed by soloists, choirs, and congregations of many of the world's major faiths around the world.

During the 2020-21 COVID shutdown, Daniel has offered, as an entirely free gift, an inspiring, intimate, and entertaining series of over 175 streaming concerts, workshops, musical meditations, lectures, and interviews on his Facebook channel (DanielNahmodUSA), touching thousands of homebound seniors as well as fans around the world with his commitment to selfless musical service.

A lifelong humanitarian, Daniel has performed for schools, prisons, hospitals, senior centers, homeless shelters, benefit events, and for congressmen in Washington, D.C. Following Hurricane Katrina, Daniel visited the Astrodome for two days, singing for thousands who had lost their worldly possessions in the storm. And for his musical work at Cedars Sinai Hospital in Los Angeles, California, Daniel was nominated for National Hospital Volunteer of the Year.

Daniel lives and works in Orange County, California, with his wife, award-winning silversmith Melina, and 9-year-old son Jude—who, as Daniel puts it, "is kind to every kid he meets, spontaneously makes up improvised tunes around the house, and unfortunately tells his Daddy what he really thinks about that new song."
