What is the value in using a Ministry Consultant?

The greatest gifts a consultant brings to your spiritual community are fresh eyes and a neutral perspective. We know our thoughts create our reality and we view our experiences through filters based on past experiences and understandings. The members of a spiritual community are part of a family system that creates the collective experience of ministry. Through observation, deep-listening, and specialized skills, UWM Consultants assist those in the ministry to become united and empowered by their vision and focused on navigating by way of their mission.

What is the role of a Ministry Consultant?

The consultant's role is to create a container for discovery and exploration, allowing the members of the spiritual community to work collaboratively and call forth the shared intelligence of the ministry. They are skilled facilitators who bring a deep understanding of ministry dynamics. They may share information, teach skills, and assist in building trust, but their primary role is facilitating the space to empower community members to discover and collectively discern the Highest Good for ministry.

Ministry Wellness

We define wellness as the capacity to be aware of, practice, participate in, and remember our wholeness. Consultants provide a non-anxious presence in the midst of varied degrees of community engagement and dynamics. As a part of growth, we see some levels of conflict as healthy opportunities to model deep listening and compassion, using each experience as tools on our journey to true community. The Wellness factor holds the highest vision for each member of a community as well as the entire organization's accountability to co-create our world. Wellness is proactive, reminding us of our true nature. It is a dynamic process of growth in mind, body, and Spirit.
